COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The regular night police officer has resigned to accept a position with the county. Elmer Bean has accepted the job of night police officer and will begin his new duties Friday, Aug. 17. He was night watchman for the Bethel Village Corporation several years ago so the job isn't entirely new for him.

The town highway crew has been sweeping and patching streets. The rain last Wednesday made some holes in the streets and gutters that had to be filled.

The assessors return of dogs is complete and will be turned over to the town clerk. Anyone with an unlicensed dog should get it licensed within the next few days.

Several people have been in and paid their 1962 taxes in full. Some people have made partial payments. Any taxpayer may make a partial payment of their tax at any time. If it is easier to make two or more payments, then please feel free to do so.

This is the last warning for parking violators. The tickets will be given to town constables and the night police officer and persons receiving tickets will be required to pay a 50-cent fine at the town office.

BETHEL SAILOR

ABOARD U. S. ESSEX
Leroy A. Brown, shipfitter second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Brown of Bethel, is serving aboard the anti-submarine warfare support aircraft carrier USS Essex presently drydocked at the New York Naval Shipyard.

The "fightingest ship in the fleet" is undergoing extensive rehabilitation and modernization, including the installation of the latest types of submarine detection equipment.

The ship, scheduled to rejoin the fleet in September, was assigned to patrol duty in the eastern Atlantic during the recent Berlin crisis.

GRIBBIN TO HEAD SIGHT CONSERVATION CAMPAIGN

Merton J. Gribbin, director of the Maine State Employment Service, will be general chairman for the Maine Sight Conservation Association fund-raising campaign.

His acceptance was announced Wednesday, Aug. 15, by Henry Steinfield, MSCA president.

The drive will be conducted by 4,000 members of Lions who will sell "Sight Certificates" to the public. The 100 Lions Clubs of Maine sponsor MSCA.

The campaign goal is $40,000.

In consenting to serve as chairman, Gribbin said the fund-raising effort is a most important activity in which every citizen of Maine should participate.

"This fund will enable Maine Sight to expand its program of educating the public on the dangers of certain eye diseases, of establishing clinics to test citizens for glaucoma—one of nature's greatest sight killers, and of routing the newly dedicated eye mobile to more areas of Maine to test eyes of children and adults," he said.

"When you realize that two per cent of all persons over the age of 40 will have glaucoma and will become blind should it not be discovered and treated, you realize how vital it is to support an association such as Maine Sight," he added.

Gribbin said he would act promptly to enlist three vice chairmen. He also will name chairman for all the soliciting districts.

LOCAL ROAD AND BRIDGE WORK SHOWS PROGRESS

Good progress is still reported on the road and bridge construction here. All drainage work is completed and most of the gravel base is in. The abutments of the old "overhead" have been removed. Lighting standards and conduits are being installed and the railings will be put up soon. Paving may be started next week. Much of the granite curbing is in place.

Traffic proceeds over the new locations with little difficulty, most of the confusion reportedly being suffered by local drivers and Canadian visitors. Signs and route numbers now in use on the job are adapted from those previously used in the old locations.

WEST PARIS YOUTH IN GUAM

Warren W. Emery, builder second second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Emery of Route 1, West Paris, has arrived in Guam, Marianas Islands, with other members of Mobile Construction Battalion Five.

The battalion left the continental United States, July 21.

While in Guam, the "Seabees" will construct housing units and renovate existing Navy facilities. They are scheduled to return to Port Hueneme, Calif., in December.

Along in August when the pleasure of farm work ceases for a spell, a forebanded man inspects his roofs. One doesn't see many wooden shingled roofs today on barns, houses and sheds. But in the back country, away from the spider web of asphalt and cement, there are buildings where the weathered shingles tell of an era when a countryman patched his roofs.

Half a century ago one bought roof covering in bunches instead of rolls, and long-lasting cedar and tough hemlock shingles were the first and second choices. Wooden shingles warp, split and blow off in winter tempests, and a man who believed in tight roofs and sound nailing checked the situation each year.

In earlier days, men made reputations with tree and nail as they split chunks of straight-grained wood. The shingles that covered cabins and first homes in the wilderness were straight, even pieces. Shingles as such were shingles that were tapered off with a drawknife.

On a not-too-hot day, it is pleasant to putter along with hammer, nail and a few shingles. The soft patina of the weathered shingles is a pleasing color and the years have made an irregular pattern of gray.

Old shingled roofs go well with protecting maples and elms. One thinks of the men who built the farmstead and the lumber for the buildings that was cut on a nearby hillside. He thinks of the generations that have lived to manhood and womanhood beneath the shingled roof of the house; he thinks of oxen, cattle and horses that have been warm and safe beneath barn scaffolds. Patching the roof is still an annual task on some farms.

As the countryman works along on a pleasant eighth month day, he senses some of the meaning in the roofs that have been patched while a new nation grew from a wilderness.

At time of exchange a provision for premium waiver in case of total permanent disability may be added to the new policy at an extra premium.

Shell dealers suggest

7 things to tell your son when he first borrows the family car

1 Don't take other drivers for granted.

They sometimes do unexpected things. In the U.S. in 1960, they ran into stationary objects more than 150,000 times.

So don't be too optimistic. Cars backing out of parking spaces do sometimes back out blindly. Cars coming from the other direction might swing into your lane—especially on hills and curves.

Your best protection is to drive defensively. The only driver you can really be sure of is yourself.

2 If the car won't start, there are a number of simple things worth trying. Use the starter in short bursts. Press accelerator to the floor once, then hold it there while you try starter.

With manual shift, keep clutch pedal all the way down. With automatic transmission, jiggle lever to make sure it's in neutral.

Note from Shell: We recently published an advertisement with 7 simple starting tips. For a free copy, write to the Shell Oil Company, P.O. Box 272, New York 46, N.Y.

3 Courtesy is contagious—and adds to everyone's driving pleasure and safety. Nobody ever cured a traffic jam by losing his temper. If you can keep your sense of humor and wait your turn, everyone will probably get where he's going sooner. Including you.

Another suggestion: It takes only seconds to let someone enter the roadway ahead of you, but it can save the other driver minutes. Just remember to signal the car behind that you're slowing down or about to stop.

4 Cars respond to good care. Have the oil, battery and water checked every time you stop for gasoline.

When you're driving, listen for unusual mechanical sounds. If you hear one, have it checked right away. It could save a big repair bill later on.

On rough roads, take it easy—tires are tough, but they are destructible.

Note: For a free copy of Shell's 12-page booklet, "44 ways to make your car last longer," write to the Shell Oil Company, P.O. Box 272, New York 46, N.Y.

Many a young man first borrows the family car for a summer dance. On this page, your local Shell dealers offer some driving tips that can be useful to him all his life.

5 Remember what you learned to get your driver's license, and you'll be a better driver. Eight out of ten car accidents stem from improper driving practices—such as speeding, failing to yield right-of-way and following other cars too closely.

Truck drivers and other professionals have very few of these accidents—mile for mile, about one-quarter as many as other drivers. The professionals know the rules of good driving—and obey them.

6 If you're going to be late, call home. And if car trouble is the reason, call the nearest service station, too.

Park off the traffic lanes and wait in the car until help arrives—with the hood up to show you're disabled. Making repairs close to a busy road can be dangerous.

Note from Shell: Over 12,000 of our dealers go to special training schools each year. There, they learn how to spot trouble in a hurry. A Shell dealer can be helpful to you in almost any emergency.

7 Have a good time. So far, almost everything you've heard about cars has to do with safety.

Now you're about to find out what a pleasure they can be. Here are the keys. Just take your responsibilities in stride. And have fun.

Comforting fact for parents: Drivers with less than three months' experience account for very few serious accidents. That's a good sign that most new drivers do take their responsibilities seriously. So you can relax.

Knowing the right answers to these questions will help you become a better driver and help make Maine's streets and highways the safest in the nation.

Please direct inquiries to the Maine Highway Safety Committee, Box 567, Pearl Street Station, Portland, Maine.

Select the best answer.

Question: You are traveling at 50 miles per hour and want to pass the car ahead which is traveling 40 miles per hour. A car is approaching at 50 miles per hour. How much space is required to pass allowing for a margin of safety. (a) 1500 feet. (b) 1/4 of a mile. (c) 2200 feet. (d) 1200 feet.

Answer (c)

Assume that a car you are about to pass is 17 feet long. To pass it, it would seem that you would need only a few car lengths, starting from in back of the other car and pulling in line in front of it. The deceptive factor is the forward movement of both cars during the passing operation.

If you are traveling at 50 miles per hour and the driver ahead is at 40, you will need about 10 seconds to pass him safely. During this time, you will cover over 755 feet—about 43 car lengths. Remember that it will take you still longer to pass a long tractor-trailer. This means that both vehicles will travel farther during the passing. A longer assured clear distance is needed.

Now suppose there is an oncoming vehicle approached at 50 miles per hour. He will travel 43 car lengths toward you while you are passing. Therefore, in order to have sufficient space to pass, you need at least 86 car lengths between you and the oncoming vehicle. Even that would mean an extremely close call—much too close to estimate safely in advance.

a margin of safety would mean another 43 car lengths needed, or 129 car lengths in all. Imagine 129 cars lined up. They would cover 2,193 feet, or almost half a mile! This would mean five city blocks needed between you and the oncoming vehicle for a safe, reasonable passing. You may well be doubtful about estimating such a great distance. Experience will help you develop ability to judge when it is safe to pass and when it is not. The important point to remember is: When there is any doubt, do not pass.
